

SBA Announces National Small Business Week

New Administrator Linda McMahon to visit Indianapolis May 3

WASHINGTON--Linda McMahon, administrator of the U.S. Small Business Administration, has announced that this year's National Small Business Week will be held April 30-May 6.

McMahon will start the week in Washington, D.C., where she will recognize and award outstanding small-business owners from around the country. She will continue the week with small business events in New York City, Indianapolis, Dallas and finish up in Fresno, Calif. Additionally, recognition and educational events throughout SBA's 10 regions and 68 districts will be held throughout the week.

During her stop in Indianapolis May 3, McMahon will meet with small business owners from throughout the state and attend an awards event in Speedway, Indiana hosted by Indiana Economic Development Corporation's Small Business Development Center and the SBA Indiana District Office.

Every year since 1963, SBA takes the opportunity to highlight the impact of outstanding entrepreneurs, small-business owners and others from across the nation through National Small Business Week.
